Happy little spirits
Twain

Roguish, bright and gay,

On fun and frolic all intent.

This Christmas holiday;
With a heigh-o, merrily go,
Over the crispy, shining
snow.

Hearts are light, and Glances bright,
Voices ringing
Clear,

Silvery laughter floating by

Awake the echoes dear.
And heigh-o, they merrily go,
Over the crispy, shining
snow.

Now on breezy pinions
borne,

Skimming the earth
in flight,

Oh, the wondrous joy
that thrills

The pulse with wild delight;

As heigh! they merrily go,
Over the crispy shining
snow.

Rejoice this Christmas day;
And hie-ho! they merrily go,
Over the crispy shining snow.

And when on home-
ward journey bound,
They pass with greeting gay,
Our quickened hearts
with thairs aglow,
